TIMELY TOPICS

THE WEATHER

With the magnificent fields heavily laden with grain of various kinds all around this great country of ours, and with the frequent storms, at times heavily laden with hail, which in some districts has fallen with merciless force, bringing devastation and gloom, farmers all around are inclined to feel nervous and fearful lest their crops should suffer a like fate.

Some are inclined to think that the beneficial providence the preacher talks so much about, might be a bit more considerate and make sure that he should cause His sun to shine on their crops and ripen them, which is all very good. But we are not often expecting from that benevolent providence much more consideration in our time of anxiety and need than we are ever prepared to give to him. There was once a people who were so taken up with their own affairs that they sadly neglected their common duty to their God; so He spoke through His prophet Malachi these words:

"Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

Is not this a fitting time to acknowledge our dependence upon our creator and to pray with great fervor: "Give us this day our daily bread." Nothing will be lost by doing this, but it may be that much may be gained in more ways than one.

THE GREAT STRIKE

The whole of England has recently been in a great turmoil over the unwillingness of the railway authorities to recognize the labor unions. When will men begin to allow to others what they enjoy themselves? Neither the railway authorities nor any other great employers of labor can stop the great onward march of progress. The laborer is ever worthy of his hire. The pity of it is that ere the working man can secure the recognition of his rights those dependent on him have to endure great suffering. And the evil does not end there. The dis-organization of traffic or trade always brings a great amount of suffering and financial loss upon many who are not directly interested in the dispute.

No this one great argument in favor of the universal brotherhood of man? The more we reognize our duty to one another the sooner shall we approach the great ideal: "Love thy neighbor as thyself." "Every man for himself and the devil for us all" ought not to be countenanced by men of this enlightened age. Rather let it be: "Every man to help the other, and God help us all." This is workable; this is Christian; this will make for the happiness of the individual, and also of the community.

POLITICS

Soon this country will be in the midst of a great political agitation.
Let us be willing to give an attentive ear to our opponent, he is sure to have something good to say, he cannot be altogether wrong. At any rate he believes he is right, and as far as we know is acting up to his belief. Let us give him credit for this and as intelligent, broad minded men allow him to enjoy his opinions without trying to blacken his character because he thinks differently to us. We want our country to progress in the best way, we want the best laws, and those that will do the greatest good to the greatest number.

Duck Shooting Opened Aug. 23rd On Wednesday, Aug. 23rd, the season opened — for which all lovers of outdoor nomadic life long—the duck and swan season.

The local sporting goods stores are displaying fine exhibits of the necessary outfitts and by this time many of the old hunters in this vicinity are ready with old decays, ammunition belt and the old trusty shotgun.

Geese and ducks are reported to be very plentiful this year in the marshes and sloughs in this neighborhood. Every hunter has a favorite spot where he thinks that game is the most plentiful, or where he has had the best luck.

Every hunter must have a license to hunt, and these can be had from the several game wardens.

Residents of cities and towns may obtain a license for shooting bird game for $1.25 from the authorities, and anyone who does not obtain a license is liable to a fine of $50. Non-residents of the province are required to pay $5 for the bird game license.

The following is a summary of the game laws of the province:

Sunday shooting is prohibited.

Hunting over enclosed lands prohibited without having obtained the consent of the owner or occupant thereof.

The killing of animals under one year of age prohibited.

No person shall shoot or hunt between one hour after sunset and hour before sunrise.

No person shall destroy game by means of poison, narcotics sunken punts, nightlights, traps, snarses, swivel, spring, automatic or machine shot gun.

No person shall export game without a permit from the minister of agriculture.

No person shall willfully disturb, destroy or take the eggs of any game or other bird protected by the Game Act.

No dog shall be used by anyone to hunt big game.

No person shall hunt big game without a license.

No person shall buy or sell any game heads unless branded by department.

No person shall buy and sell, deal and traffic in the flesh of any big game or game bird without a license.

No person shall act as guide or camp-helper without a license.

All birds are protected except:
Wild geese, crows, eagles, goslings, pigeon hawks, Cooper's hawks, hawk owls, blackbirds, grackles, English sparrows, loons, corncrakes, pelicans, and magpies.

Below are the open and close seasons for the various classes of game. It will be noticed that wild geese are not protected this year.

Sunday School Treat

(Intended for last week)

On Friday afternoon, Aug. 11th, the officers and teachers of the Methodist Sunday school met on the sports ground of Cayley with about forty of the scholars and a number of the parents to spend an afternoon in entertaining the children. The following program of sports was indulged in and thoroughly enjoyed:

Boys' race, 50 yards, 5 to 10 years—Harold Mann, Ivan Wickson Boys' race, 50 yards, 7 to 10 years—Event Keller, Kenneth Walker.

Boys', 50 yards, 6 to 8 years—Gordon Harris, Clinton Keller.

Boys and girls, 3 to 5 years—Frankie Keller, Linwood Walker.

Girls, 50 yards, 10 to 12 years—Grace Wickson, Jean Wickens.

Girls, 50 yards, 8 to 10 years—Jean Wickens, Helen Wickens.

Girls, 5 to 7 years—Frankie Keller, Rosena Elves.

Canvass race, 8 to 12 years—Harold Mann, Percy Anderson.

Canvass race, 5 to 8 years—Norman Bradley, Clinton Keller.

Backward race, boys and girls—Grace Wickson, Percy Anderson.

3-legged race, girls—Jean Wickens and Grace Wickens.

3-legged race, boys—Percy Anderson.

Girls' boat race—Jean Wickens, Beatrice Harris.

Boys' boat race—Kenneth Walker, Clifford Vance.

The sports were concluded with a scramble race for fruit. They then proceeded to the church, where the prizes were awarded, consisting of books, shoes, knives, handkerchiefs, fruit, etc.

The parents of children had contributed liberally of good things for tea, which was served at the church.

The gathering broke up about 7 p.m. feeling that it was an afternoon well spent. We hope to make this treat an annual one.

THE SCHLUSSELBURG

A Horrible Russian Prison Utterly Isolated From the Living World.

The following wonderfully vivid picture of a prison in Russia, where many a man and woman too for that matter—has suffered untold torture, is taken from an article in McClure's Magazine:

In the middle of the River Neva, which flows through St. Petersburg, there lies a tiny island surrounded on three sides by the turbulent waters of the river. In the center of the fourth by the cold and stormy lake, is situated a very ancient fortress enclosed by a wall more than 20 feet in thickness. This is the Schlusselfburg.

Day and night sentinels, relieved every two hours, pace around the top of the wall, looking out over the water, and looking on every hand. No one from within the fortress, nor even the sentinels themselves, dare communicate with the people who live in the banks of the river. If the unwary traveler chance to drift in his boat too near the wall, he is sure to be captured and shot.

The prisoners are allowed to demonstrate to the sentinels what it was that caused the escape of the great numbers of prisoners from the fortress, and to stand in the same manner as the sentinels.

This pacing back and forth was to test the strength of the prisoners. No books were given to them except the Bible, no work for them to do, no food for their eyes, no sound for their ears.

Cut off from the living world, but in full view of the terrible prison garb, with one sleeve black and the other yellow, they sit idly in the dark, smoking pipes, an occasional rest from the constant pacing back and forward across the floor.

This pacing back and forth was also used to test the strength of the prisoners. No books were given to them except the Bible, no work for them to do, no food for their eyes, no sound for their ears.

COOK'S MASQUERADE.

New Nine Young Matrons Spent a Jolly Afternoon.

Bridget Kelly, Anna Lee, Thea, Ethel, Alice, Thea, Thursday, Aug. 1st, 60 Adams street

So read the invitations written on butcher's paper and inclosed in tiny spice boxes, says a contributor to Table Talk.

The hostess of the party we guessed from the invitations, and our surmises were confirmed by a telephone message. Our hostess requested my sister and I to masquerade as Americans and we cooked a dinner fit for a king.

Of course we are the Americans needed no "fixins," wearing my usual kitchen sweater and its accompanying long sleeves apron. My sister wore a white dress decorated with roses, with her hair in a gathered knot and white lace at the waist.

At the back entry we were met by the hostess, but as she transposed us into the dining room, we saluted with a "Good evening" and were seated at the table.

The room was dimly lighted, but the windows were open, so that the stars shone brightly through the curtains.

The tables were set with the best chinaware, and the chairs were tucked under the tables.

The hostess, dressed in a white blouse and a blue skirt, was the belle of the ball.

The place cards were all in English, and the menu was in English, so we had to learn to speak English.

The dishes were all English, and the silverware was English.

The menu was in English, and the wine list was in English.

As soon as we had eaten our meal, the hostess said, "Now for dessert." So we all got up and went to the kitchen.

There we found a large cake spoon, with date and "A Kitchen Tea" written on the handle.

These were prepared at stated periods, and while we were waiting for the next course, we entertained ourselves by a talk on the various dishes of the Germans.

She spoke of the German economy, how it was formed, and how the German people had been educated.

Her husband, a German, had been a soldier in the First World War, and had been captured by the Russians.

He was held prisoner for four years, and was released in 1918.

He had been held in a prison camp, and had been forced to work in a coal mine.

The Weathercock.

The edge of the roof of our house is connected with a legend in connection with St. Peter.

As a matter of fact, however, the figure of a cock used to be placed in front of the door, and the door was closed before it was used on buildings.

The movement of the bird was supposed to indicate the approach of evil spirits.

On a number of modern churches the familiar van is missing, but in days gone by a church was hardly ever built without the weathercock on its steeple.—London Standard.
